

Philippe has an undergraduate degree in Communication Studies from Concordia University in Montreal and a law degree from the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton. In addition to studying in Canada Philippe has broadened his education by studying in Australia and the United States.

Philippe has studied negotiation and mediation and brings this education to his law practice. He has worked with the Canadian Internet Policy and Public Interest Clinic assisting with internet policy advocacy projects in Ottawa, Ontario and has also worked with the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda in Arusha, Tanzania.

Philippe currently volunteers with Calgary Legal Guidance and Legal Aid Alberta providing legal assistance and information to persons who would not otherwise have access to legal services. Philippe volunteers as a way to stay active and contribute to his community and as a way to develop new skills and strengthen existing ones.

Philippe owns and operates a Family Law Firm in Calgary. More information is available on Philippe and on the subject of Family law on his site www.shinkfamilylaw.com
